THE SOCIAL WHIRL

Like to dance? Go to parties? Have fun? Then read on to find out what good times this year's social committee has planned for you!

First a little about the committee. It's headed by Joan Atwell, and includes Mary Lou Weiss, Mac Barnes, Aileen Foyd, Carol Christoffel, Gail Cook, Pat Holm, Sue Ryan, Arlyne Sandell, and Dorothy Hauck.

This group is representative of all three dorms, the three upper classes and the city students. The committee is anxious to work with the freshmen so any suggestions and help from them will be appreciated and welcomed.

The first event will be the "mixer", your big chance to meet Milwaukee men. If you know of anyone you'd like invited, be sure to hand in his name and address.

Next will be an off campus dance Nov. 20 with football as a tentative theme. The Christmas dance with all its holiday atmosphere will be held in Greene early in December.

Highlighting the semester will be the Junior Prom, with Queen-----reigning over her red class court in gracious splendor.

BEING SISTERLY

If you've been confusing names and faces these first few weeks of school, or saying "hello" to someone you think you know, only to find you've never seen her before, perhaps the reason is that we have so many sisters here at the same time.

A sure method of telling the Norris girls apart is to take notice of their accents. It is Jane if she says "Boston," and if it sounds more like "Bah-ston" it's Gracie.

We wonder how Shirley

Glaubitz managed to stay awake on the bus these past three years without her sister Jane to keep her company on their long ride every day.

It's really difficult to tell Bev and Gloria Olsen apart, because they're as much alike as two sisters can be, even down to taking the same major, Chemistry.

Speaking of similarity, it was a rare coincidence that Ruth Bernstein should happen to get her sister, Doris Bernstein Karp's old freshman chapel seat.

With us again are the Thoke sisters, Betty and Rita, from Manitowoc, Wis. Both are juniors, and although they look alike, are not twins.

STEP THIS WAY, FOLKS!

In case you're wondering how to get into things 'round Downer, this article is designed especially for you. The first thing to do is decide upon your particular interest and then pay a $300 fee to join. A club has to have funds, you know.

Of course if you are a student at MDC you automatically belong to the CSO or your own dorm group. All you have to do is attend meetings regularly. CGA is another good club - very exclusive. Any dorm student can tell you the quickest way to get an invitation from House Board, but this is a very select group and has high entrance requirements.

If you're interested in sports, you should sign up for AA--Jan Matthews urges everyone to join and win numerals.

Aeolian club is for girls with musical talent; needless to say, I never joined. Then there are the Language clubs, German, French and Spanish. The meetings are held in a foreign language and you'll have to hire a translator.

The Home Ec. club is for majors in that field--and anyone interested in cooking and sewing. The OT club is very popular, the members make wooden plates, while the Studio club girls sit and draw serious portraits of one another (resale value $1.99.)

If you're a second Bevin or Molotov, join International Relations club and straighten out world affairs. In case you have a dramatic flair, you can see Miss Cerrato and get into Mountebanks; all you have to do is design a stage set and act in 22 plays a year.

If anyone's interested, she can have my job writing for Snapshot--I'll probably lose it after this article anyway.

ADDING STRENGTH TO STRENGTH AND WISDOM TO WISDOM

Arriving from many parts of the country, MDC's new faculty members have a wide variety of interests and experiences. We're proud to introduce them to you, six now and the other six next week.

MISS MARY DAVIS

Dean

Experience as a high school counselor has given Dean Davis a special interest in watching the development of girls from high school to college level. She is enthusiastic in her praise of our activity leaders with their keen sense of responsibility, and also of the serious scholastic work done by Downer students.

MISS MARTHA PRATT

Speech

The friendly manner of both faculty and students has helped Miss Pratt feel very much at home at Downer. She's anticipating great things in radio script writing and actual radio work here. Her initiation in this field locally was via our memorable T-V debut.

MISS MARY STREET

Music

Tennessee's rolling hills are pretty far away for Miss Street, but Lake Michigan, our wooded campus, and the friendly attitude of everyone have compensated for her loss. MDC has speedily drafted her into service--- two recital appearances and a T-V "bit" since opening days.

MISS RUTH HALLETT

Botany

Miss Hallett, who is a '48 PBK graduate of Downer, admits, "it is strange to have some of my best friends in my classes." It is not surprising, that, as a member of the Botany faculty, her hobby is horticulture.

MISS MARJORIE IRVIN

Music

Miss Irvin is already a familiar figure at Downer, for she can be seen playing the organ in chapel every day. She is an ardent lover of horses, and for several years has been raising her own.

MISS JEAN GEBHARDT

Physical Education

Arriving from the University of Wisconsin, Miss Gebhardt, who is often mistaken for one of the students, is impressed with the athletic facilities at Downer. Swimming ranks tops on her list of sports, and has since she was four or five years old.

QUICK SNAPS

Miss Tingley asked Mary Ann Rzutkiewicz please to pronounce her last name. Mary Ann hesitated, and then stumbled through the correct pronunciation. Give us time, Smithy, we'll learn. At least we spelled it right, didn't we?

Are the seniors slipping? At the beach party, the faculty had to assist the seniors in the singing of their songs. Voices changing, hmmm?

CORRECTION

October 4 to 21 is the date of the Community Fund drive, not the Red Cross, as announced in last week's issue. We're sorry. Even editors make mistakes.

FAN MAIL

Nancy Grey has received a request for the recipe of the orange chiffon cake made by Home Ec. students on MDC's telecast.

DON'T OPEN THAT LETTER!

Miss Ruth Morrison, new faculty member, and Ruth Morris, freshman, have been receiving each other's mail. More confusion is being added by Suzanne West, freshman, no relative of our Home Ec. chief, and Mitzie Newman and Miss Marion G. Neumann of the OT faculty, both new this year.

Visitor: How many students have you in your classes?

Professor: Oh, about one in every five.

(filched from the faculty bulletin board)
